

33 Revolutions Per Minute A History Of Protest Songs From Billie Holiday To Green Day Dorian Lynskey

33 Revolutions Per Minute A

33 Revolutions Per Minute is the story of protest music told in 33 songs. An incisive history of a wide and shape-shifting genre, Dorian Lynskey's authoritative book takes us from the days of Billie Holliday crooning "Strange Fruit" before shocked audiences to Vietnam-era crowds voicing their resentment at the sounds of Bob Dylan to the fracas over the Dixie Chicks' comments against George W. Bush during the Iraq War.

33 Revolutions per Minute covers the history of the 20th century protest song through 33 songs from different eras, covering a period of roughly seventy years. A passionately told socio-cultural history of the music and the times it was written for, it does, as the author notes toward the end, feel like something of an elegy.

33 Revolutions per Minute is a play on the 33, a small record that spun 33 times per minute, and uses minutes as a metaphor for years. The book is divided into segments, which represent different decades and within each segment/decade, there are a few four-page analyses on each signer and song that defined the anti-war, anti-government mentality of that decade.
